

Codexis Senior Vice President of R&D Dr. Jim Lalonde Announces Plan to Resign

April 5, 2019

REDWOOD CITY, Calif., April 05, 2019 (GLOBE NEWSWIRE) -- Codexis, Inc. (NASDAQ: CDXS), a leading protein engineering company, announces that Jim Lalonde, Ph.D., Senior Vice President of Research and Development, will resign effective May 31, 2019 to pursue other interests.

"Jim has played an integral role over many years with the Codexis team refining and applying our CodeEvolver® protein engineering platform. We thank him for his many contributions to the success of our company and wish him well in his future endeavors," said John Nicols, Codexis President and Chief Executive Officer. "With a deeply experienced and long-tenured leadership team under Jim, we have full confidence in the seamless continuity of our R&D function. Succession plans are in motion to ensure that Codexis is setup for the next chapter of technology advancements and stepout growth applying the CodeEvolver® protein engineering platform."

"I am extremely grateful to all of the past and present scientists at Codexis. It has been a privilege to collaborate with such talented professionals, and to have helped drive the CodeEvolver® protein engineering platform to deliver sustainable solutions to a growing number of industries," said Dr. Lalonde. "I am very proud of the R&D team assembled at Codexis, and am confident all ongoing and planned programs are in capable hands."
